PHOENIX, Feb. 1, 2017 /PRNewswire/ -- Troxell, a national leader in education technology & collaboration solutions for more than 60 years, is proud to announce the arrival and return of Clint Knudsen, who joins the company as the new Regional Vice President for the Western States Sales Territory. He will oversee Account Executives servicing school districts in California, Hawaii, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, and Utah.

Clint originally joined Troxell in February of 2008. His efforts helped to firmly establish Troxell as an important education partner to local school districts in Utah and Idaho, who were striving to strengthen the classroom learning environment. He is the recipient of a number of national awards and recognition for his success.

"We are pleased to welcome Clint back to the Troxell family," said Mark Barber, Senior Vice President of Sales. "Through his efforts in building long-lasting relationships with local school districts, Troxell enjoyed unprecedented business growth in the Utah/Idaho territory with his customer base. In his new role, we expect to see the best practices of his past achievements translate to his new team and build upon that solid foundation to set up their ongoing success."

Clint has been an active participant in education serving on state education technology boards, serving local youth organizations, working with state educators, being a mentor to STEM students, and more.

After a successful 5+ years with Troxell, Clint accepted a senior sales position with global manufacturing and electronics company Siemens, staying for 3 years. He is excited to return to Troxell in his new role and looks forward to making an impact, fulfilling his passion for education. Clint graduated with a Marketing Communications degree from the University of Utah.

You may contact Clint Knudsen at 800-352-7912 x4300.
